

Membership Handout

African Healthcare Workers Association of Colorado

Membership Information and Benefits

The African Healthcare Workers Association of Colorado (AHWAC) is a professional, nonprofit, and community-centered association established to support, unite, and empower African healthcare workers in Colorado. AHWAC exists to promote professional excellence, mutual support, leadership development, cultural connection, advocacy, and community health impact.

Why Membership Matters

Joining AHWAC means becoming part of a trusted and growing network of African healthcare professionals and allies who are committed to advancing one another and strengthening the broader community. Membership offers both immediate and long-term value by combining professional opportunity with shared support and collective impact.

Key Benefits of Membership

Members of AHWAC may benefit from:

- Professional networking with African healthcare workers and allied professionals across Colorado
- Mentorship and career guidance
- Leadership development opportunities
- Educational programming and professional development activities
- Access to job openings, licensing resources, and training information
- Opportunities for committee service and association leadership
- Increased professional visibility and recognition
- Support during career transition
- Community outreach, advocacy, and volunteer engagement

- Cultural connection, solidarity, and belonging
- Access to approved member support initiatives

Member Welfare Support

In addition to professional and community benefits, AHWAC provides welfare-related support for eligible members in good standing, subject to association policies and requirements. These may include:

- Hospitalization support
- Permanent disability support
- Death benefits for designated next-of-kin

These benefits reflect AHWAC's commitment not only to professional advancement, but also to the well-being of its members and their families.

Who AHWAC Serves

AHWAC is designed for eligible African healthcare workers and others in healthcare-related fields in Colorado, including professionals, students, trainees, allied health personnel, and support workers who share the association's mission and values.

Why Join AHWAC Now

By joining AHWAC now, you become part of a meaningful and growing institution committed to building a stronger future for African healthcare professionals in Colorado. Membership offers you the opportunity to connect, grow, lead, and contribute to a lasting legacy of service and excellence.

Join AHWAC Today

Take your place in a community that values professional growth, cultural pride, leadership, and collective impact.

Become a member. Build connections. Grow your influence. Strengthen the community.